FOREWORD

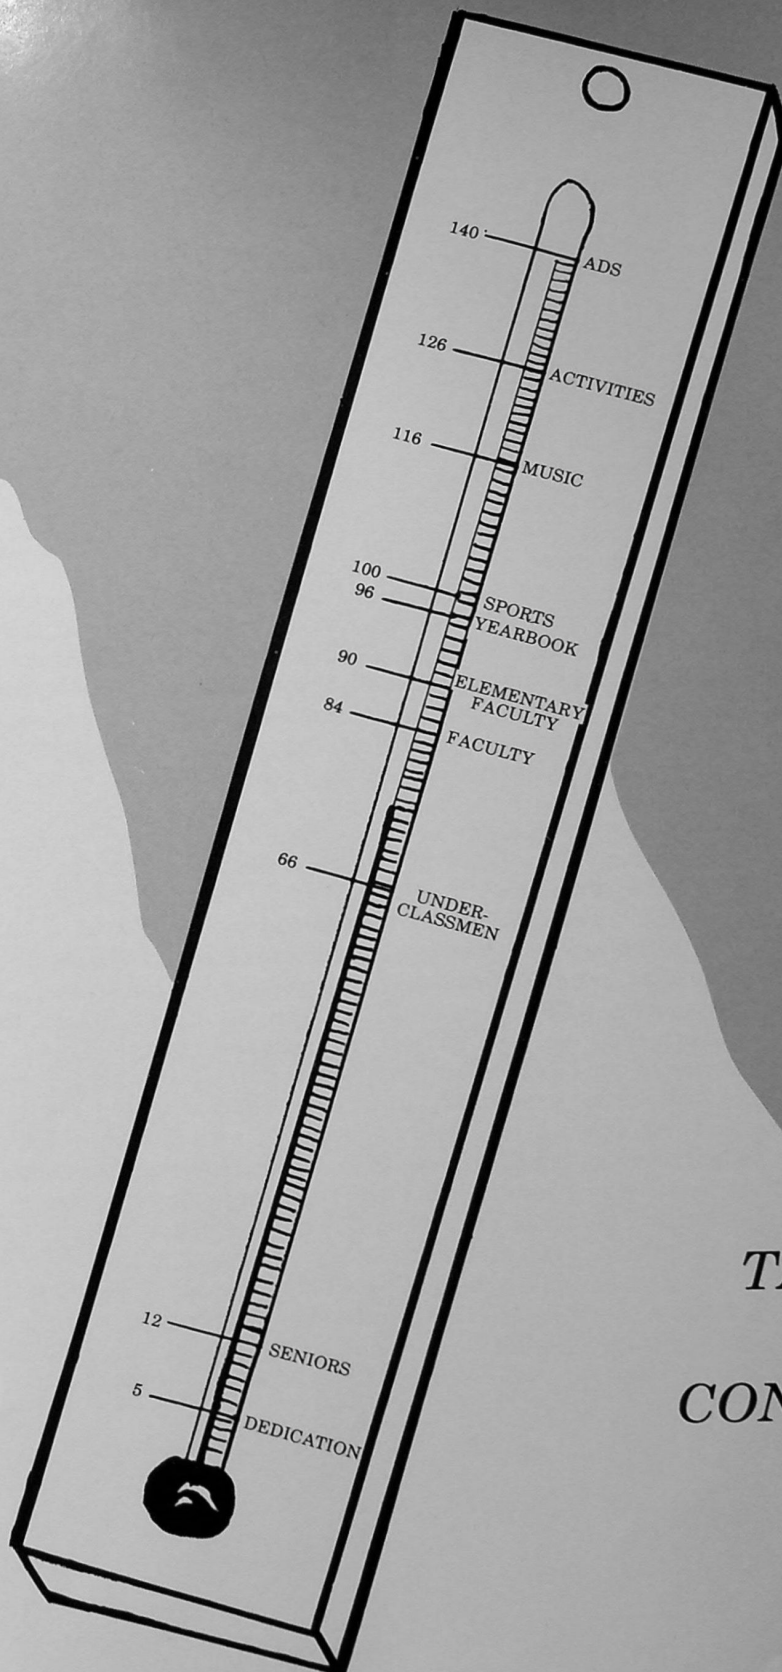

There is a sumptuous variety about weather that compels one's admiration—and regret. Weather can help man—or hinder him. We of the 1964 EAGLE staff believe that we have defeated the adverse elements and have joined with favorable nature. Braving thunderstorms, fog, and even hurricanes, our staunch forecasters, the art, photography, literary, and business-circulation staffs, have laboriously and diligently gathered, recorded, and compiled the necessary data with which to form this yearbook.

Because of the sincere encouragement and expert help we received from our weather-wise editor-in-chief, Jane Stigel, and our able advisor, Mr. Norman Shaffer, it was possible for us to keep sunny outlooks and the needed enthusiasm to maintain our high quality of performance. Extended are our thanks and appreciation also to the student body, faculty, administration, and communities for supporting the effort of our association.

It is our hope that this 1964 annual lives up to and even exceeds the high standard of excellence of past yearbooks and that this EAGLE will be remembered and cherished for many years to come.

“What would have become of us had it pleased Providence to make the weather unchangeable?”

WEATHER

Since the beginning of time man's life has been dominated by the unpredictable changes of weather. Early man found that he had much to contend with but that his greatest problem was the weather, for this controlled his existence. A drought could cause starvation, too much rain a flood, or a severe snowstorm freezing. Only through deliberate forethought could he even surmise the unprophesied whims of nature; however, through experience he learned to prepare himself for any occurrence.

Some peoples, such as the Greeks, thought the forces of nature were controlled by gods. They believed there existed a sun god, Apollo; a sky-god, Zeus; a goddess of the dawn, Aurora; and many others.

If angered by the acts of man, these gods would strike the earth with thunderbolts, cause earthquakes, etc. As time progressed, however, man learned more about the atmosphere and, in doing so, discovered weather was not determined by irate gods, but by the movement of great air masses. Nevertheless, even today at times something strange occurs in the usual variations of weather which perplexes the best of our scientists.

This same feature is characteristic of human nature, for although we attempt to understand our thoughts and emotions, many times we are completely baffled by our ensuing actions. Affected in multitudinous ways, our moods, too, are unpredictable and subject to frequent change. Often in the course of our lives, we are confronted with seemingly insurmountable obstacles, emotionally upsetting, but we must learn to overcome and rise above them. Every age has its own problem: Noah's was the great flood; ours is the threat of nuclear war. However, we should take refuge in the fact that we are striving to avert this impending disaster in every possible way not only by the utilization of our scientific and diplomatic powers but also by our faith in the divine guidance of God. And as Noah survived due to the grace of God, so shall we triumph only if He permits. Therefore, it is dependent upon us, as fellow human beings, to apply our knowledge to the fullest extent and to conquer this apparently insurmountable problem, for in ages past it has been proven that nothing is impossible, neither the complete control of weather, nor the control of our emotions, nor the prevention of a third world war.

DEDICATION

A student entering junior high school must make many new adjustments. His scholastic schedule is more difficult; perhaps it contains a greater variety of subjects. No longer is he taught all subjects by one instructor, but his classes are conducted in several rooms, each with a new and strange teacher. This student appreciates a smile and understanding of his momentary confusion.

However, there is the pupil who needs more lengthy instruction than another. He welcomes and willingly learns for the teacher who is patient and gives freely of her time. Also, the teacher who instructs with wholehearted enthusiasm influences favorably the student's attitude toward high school and all types of education.

Therefore, we, the Yearbook Staff, have the special and pleasurable privilege of dedicating the '64 EAGLE to two of our most deserving faculty members—MRS. OTILDA BURROW and MISS STELLA McLYMOND.

MRS. OTILDA BURROW

Mrs. Otilda Burrow has spent most of her life educating children. Having received a Life Teaching Certificate upon graduation from Fredonia Normal in 1915, she taught for two years in Delevan, New York, before coming to Ontario. Here she instructed at three district schools before our centralization; since, she has been teaching English Seven for ten years in the high school building. Mrs. Burrow is also interested in art and traveling. We congratulate her in her forty-seventh year of teaching.

MISS STELLA McLYMOND

Also in her forty-seventh year of teaching is Miss Stella McLymond. Miss McLymond attended Lancaster Junior College in Lancaster, Massachusetts, where she received her Life Teaching Certificate. Her teaching career in the Wayne Central area, both before and after centralization, has been interrupted by employment in Sodus and Buffalo, New York, and Boston, Massachusetts. Since September, 1955, she has been teaching a self-contained classroom of seventh or eighth grade pupils. Her students are recognized throughout our Junior-Senior High School building as the most polite and courteous—a real tribute to her teaching.

SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL

THOMAS C. ARMSTRONG

Dear Seniors,

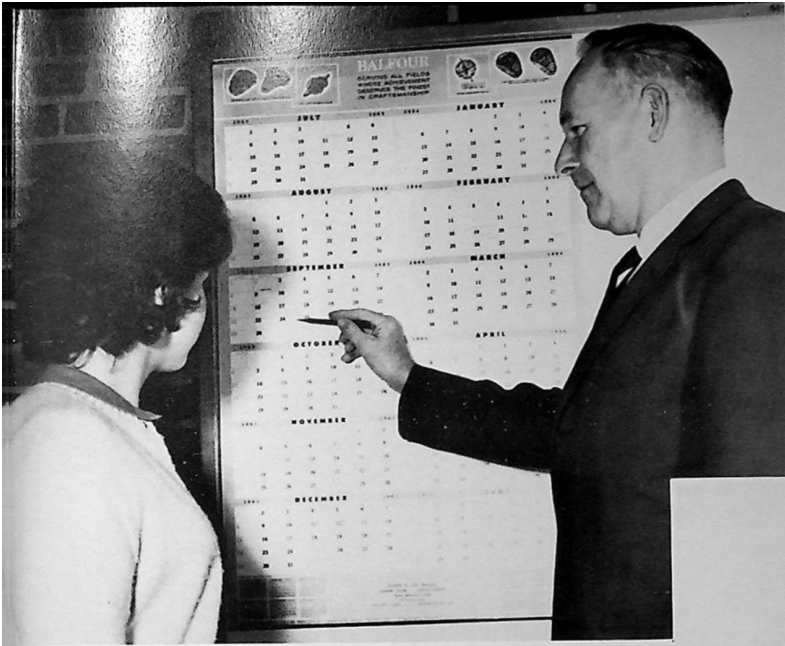

As you approach your time for being graduated from Wayne Central School, I would like to urge all of you, who have the ability, to go on to some kind of advanced training. You will be living in a period of automation when unskilled labor will be a drug on the market. The time is rapidly approaching when some kind of training beyond the twelfth year will be a pre-requisite to securing a position which provides satisfaction and livable wages.

Education is an investment for life, and it is a possession of which you cannot be robbed. There will always be a demand for educated and skilled craftsmen, therefore you should consider carefully any opportunity you may have to pursue work at a college, technical institute, business institute, etc.

Best wishes for an enjoyable and successful life.

Sincerely,
Thomas C. Armstrong

PRINCIPAL

Dear Seniors,

Let us hesitate to reflect upon the forces which have been at work over a period of years to make this accomplishment a reality to the class of 1964. Your individual effort is always a necessary part of any success, and it will continue to be the first necessity for any success which you achieve in the future. The sacrifices of your parents and the efforts of the board of education and the faculty at Wayne Central in performing their respective jobs have provided the learning facilities of your environment. It is my sincere wish that each of you will continue to make the very best use of the many facilities and of the personal help available to you during your lifetime.

Sincerely yours,
Robert D. Colburn

PARKER N. BRIDGES

Barbara Harden, Mr. Parker N. Bridges

To the Seniors:

Your high school days are over... Whether or not you realize it, they have been some of the best years of your life.

Next year will be different—almost a new world and a new life. We, your teachers, hope your years at Wayne Central have provided you with the knowledge and maturity to make the most and best of yourself. This is your duty to God, to your fellow human beings, and to yourself.

Sincerely,

Parker N. Bridges
Senior High Counselor

Dear Seniors,

I wish it were possible for me to wish each of you success and happiness, because to me there have been moments of satisfaction and pride in the accomplishments of each of you seniors.

I think that your success will depend on your individual efforts and it is my hope your years at Wayne Central will be of value in whatever you do.

Best wishes for a happy and rewarding future.

Sincerely,
Harold C. Shay

Dear Seniors :

The Board of Education of Wayne Central School congratulate you, the class of 1964, on your graduation.

The years you have spent at Wayne Central have been challenging and fruitful years. Much hard work, some disappointment and, we hope, a great deal of enjoyment has been experienced here. You will soon enter an even more challenging phase of your life with many avenues open to each of you. Set your sights high and retain a strong faith in God and yourself. The many roadblocks placed in your paths can be overcome through this faith and your strength of purpose.

We extend to each of you the best of wishes through the years to come.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT

Trond Markestad

Dear Students of Wayne Central:

Before my arrival here I knew that the U.S.A. was much like Norway, because we read about this country and especially because the Norwegian youth takes many patterns from it. But still I was surprised how much America is like Norway.

Though this was my first stay away from home, I did not feel homesick and this is good proof for how much I enjoyed the experience. The first days were, of course, a little confusing, but you and the teachers were always willing to help. I will always remember this year as one of the happiest and most marvelous years in my life, and I hope I will still have contact with some of you after I have returned to Norway.

I wish all of you good luck in the future, or as we say in Norway, "Lykke til..."

GRADUATION

When the weatherman gives his daily forecast, he may predict sunshine, a storm, or fog. Each of these characteristics of nature also depicts the emotions of the senior upon graduation. A joyous yet sorrowful occasion, graduation is attained only by long hours of study and by earnest endeavor. The graduate has been freed of the world of compulsory education and obligations. No longer can he return to the simplicity and ease of high school life. Now he must join a new world, that of adults, where decisions are his alone to make, his future self-determined.

For those seniors who decide to join at once with their lifetime partners, the responsibilities of marriage and family life will be immediately thrust upon them. This itself is a very important decision; and others will be required, but now they must be made by a team of two.

Further training awaits those who enter college or the services. Much will be expected of these young people; success will depend upon their character, leadership, judgment, and foresight. Perhaps some will later enter the Peace Corps and shoulder the "white man's burden," imparting their knowledge to the underdeveloped nations of the world.

Several will seek employment upon graduation. They, too, will face new responsibilities. Most of their days will be filled with many hours of toil; they must obey their superiors and uphold certain rules.

Graduation is not the end but the beginning of many new undertakings which should be faced with eagerness. All of us will have a part in molding this nation into what it will be in subsequent years. An inspiring incentive for our future tasks are the words of our late President, John F. Kennedy, as stated in his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

TOP TEN

One of the highest goals which a high school student can obtain is that of being a member of the "Top Ten." These ten students, having worked unceasingly throughout their high school years, like the sun which works unceasingly to provide us with heat, have earned this honor, a well-deserved reward. Therefore, in their senior year they are recognized by both teacher and student alike as being the ten students out of over one hundred students who have reached the zenith of scholastic ability.

As they begin their high school years, students are confronted with many new and strange aspects of school life. Although they may at first be reluctant to participate in the various school activities, they soon cast off their shells and establish themselves. Unlike the swirling snow which is blown aimlessly by the shifting winds, these underclassmen soon find a definite goal and learn to sail with the breeze, not against it.

Nearing their final year and graduation, the Juniors have wisely elected Bill Bridges as their President. Vice President Len Henderson, Secretary Bonnie Hayes, and Treasurer Connie Chase have proven themselves capable of assisting the President as shown by the presentation of the Junior Prom and the selling of refreshments at basketball games.

The Class of '66, led by President Dan Doyle, Veep Cindy Van Hoover, Secretary Marilyn Reynolds, and Treasurer Betty Suwijn, has shown its school spirit by presenting its dance, "La Victorie," in honor of our great soccer team upon its cinching the championship.

John Caskey, President of the Freshman Class, is fully aware of the timidity of his class, especially in the participation of school activities; and he has done his best to break the ice between the upper- and the underclassmen. One of these ice-breakers was the class dance, "Deep Purple," with music supplied by the Trinidads. Veep Terry Emison, Secretary Marilyn Drexler, and Treasurer Vicky Hill have definitely shown that they, too, are worthy of all the responsibility entrusted to them.

Like the murmuring zephyr that emanates on a warm spring day, the Junior High is the base upon which the intricate complexities of high school are built. Acting as a governing force, the Junior High Student Council provides the vital leadership which is essential in the development of strong character. Through the presentation of their Council dances, the Junior High students show their interest in our school, for the money they earn is used to purchase paintings to complement the beauty of our school.

So as you, Underclassmen, progress on your way to the wide open world ahead, may you maintain and even excel the standards of your predecessors.

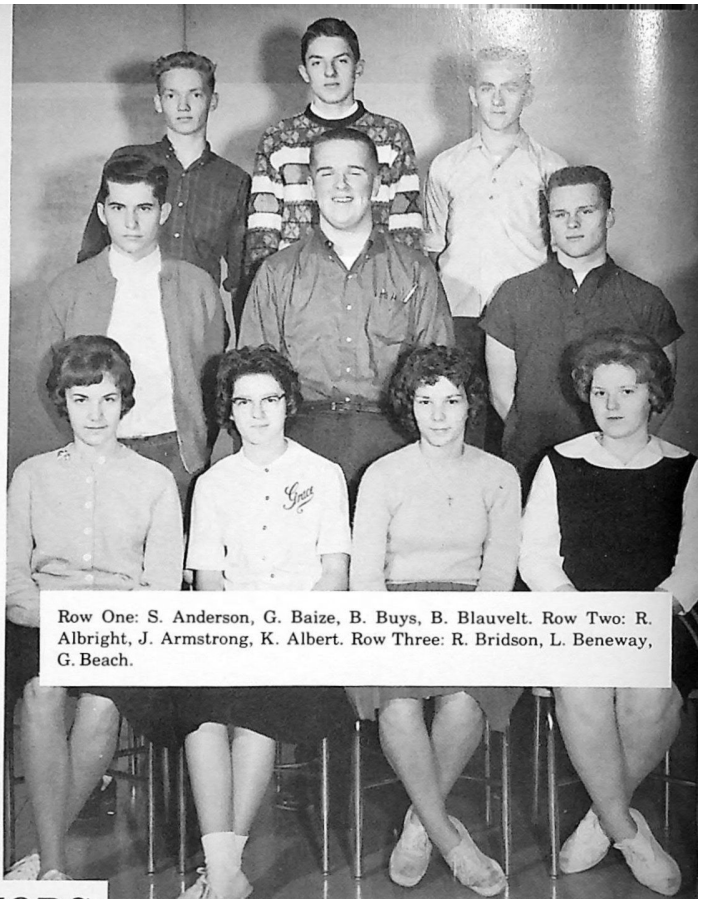

Nancy Thompson
Jean Caskey

FACULTY AND PERSONNEL

As the temperate days of summer end and autumn arrives, bringing the scarlet brilliance of leaves fluttering to the ground, the doors of our school open and once again we begin a new school year.

Our competent janitorial staff has been preparing for this day all summer. Because they have worked diligently day after day, when we return we find the halls, rooms, and lockers fresh and immaculate.

The office personnel have also been busy during the warm summer days. It is their job to supply us, the students and teachers, with the materials necessary to complete our everyday school work. Filing and typing are two of the many secretarial tasks that consume their hours.

Each day our bus drivers provide safe transportation to and from school, and throughout the year the cafeteria workers prepare for us nutritious meals.

Unlike the falling leaf which is blown aimlessly by varying winds, we receive direction from our guide counselors and teachers. Our personalities and intellectual abilities are developed during our high school life. Throughout these formative years, our teachers are the molders and builders of our minds. It is only through them that we can hope to attain our ultimate goal, a valuable future. They are the center of our educational system and are equally as important to our school as the sun is to the world.

Earning a diploma is certainly not easy, but by increasing our understanding and knowledge our teachers enable us to weather the storm. It is through them that we learn how to use our abilities to the fullest extent and it is through them that the clouds of ignorance are penetrated.

We have weathered the storm and once again present to you, the student body, the Wayne Central EAGLE.

This annual holds for you brief glances and cherishable memories of your high school years, but to the members of the 1964 Yearbook Staff it symbolizes much more. Ten months' hard work is required for the deliberate planning, designing, and writing which make the '64 EAGLE a yearbook of highest quality. Many other activities and pleasures must be forfeited to devote the time and effort given by my staff. For many this was a first chance to shoulder much responsibility and they have borne it well. All accepted the challenge, but only with the advice and guidance received from our advisor, Mr. Norman Shaffer, were they victorious in producing a memorable EAGLE.

Also I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the surrounding communities for their patronage, to the students for their complete co-operation, and to the faculty and administration for their patience and assistance.

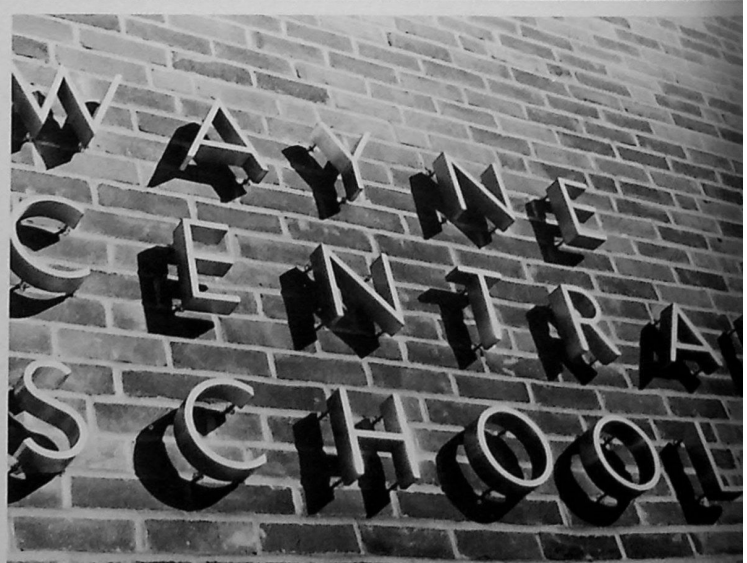

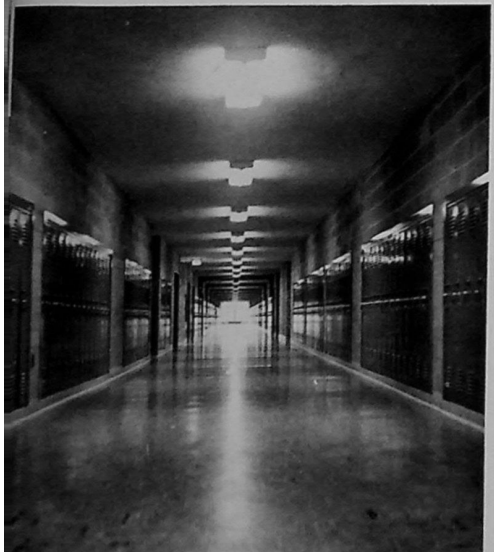

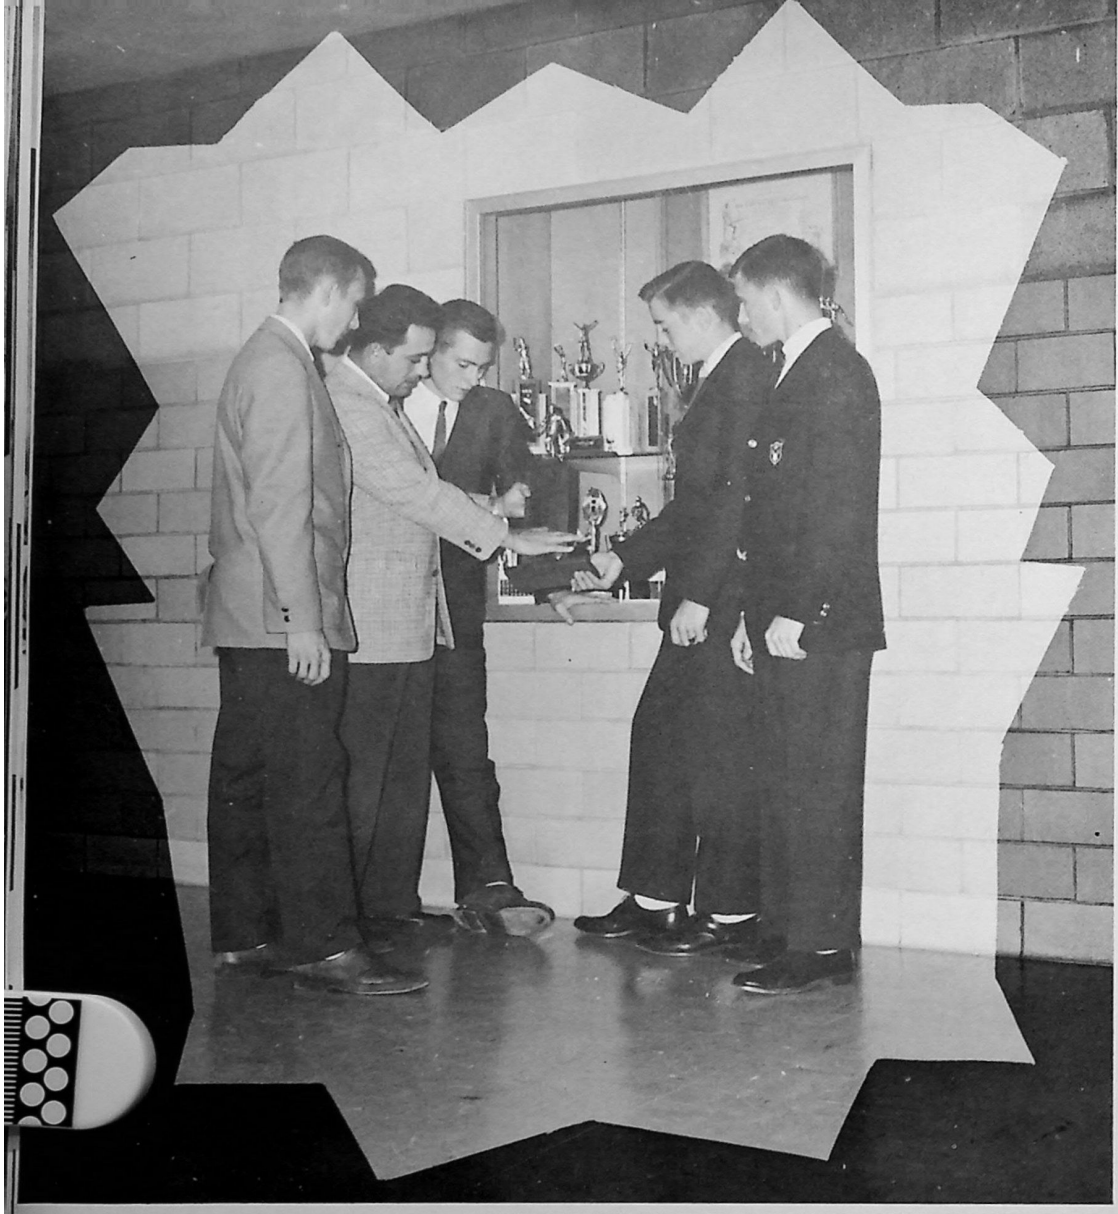

We have not conquered Nature but we have braved its adverse elements, an accomplishment partially due to the training received from Marian Adams and the staff of '63. My staff hopes that they, too, have been able to make the task of next year's staff, with Editor Mary Keeley, less difficult.

And so, as I express my deepest gratitude to the 1964 Yearbook Staff for their faithful endeavors and continuous dedication, I place into the hands of you — the students, faculty, and administration of Wayne Central — our final product, the '64 EAGLE.

SPORTS

This autumn Wayne's cheerleaders were chosen from a number of worthy girls. The final selections elected Jean Miller and Carol Keeley as Varsity Captain and Co-captain, and Betty Suwijn and Cindy Van Hoover as J.V. Captain and Co-captain. These squads not only encourage better school spirit, but also promote high standards of sportsmanship. Also reorganized this year were the Girls' Leaders Club and girls' intramurals. Carol Keeley is president of this club, which revised its constitution, manages and encourages participation in girls' athletics, and aids the gym teacher as squad leaders. Helping her and Mrs. Wiegand, their advisor, are Vice President Jill Harris, Secretary-Treasurer Carol Tobin, and Intramural Chairman Jean Miller.

One of the most recent groups in our school is the Boys' Leaders Club. President Jim Henderson is assisted by Veep Bob Kelly, Secretary-Treasurer Kevin Cass, Intramural Chairman Bill Bridges, and Activity Chairman Rich Tobin. The purpose of the club is primarily to boost the morale and spirit of fair play and to lead other boys in physical education classes. Choosing the members of the club was a rather difficult task since so many were eligible. It is hoped that this organization will exhibit the qualities we want all our students to possess and will maintain the high standards of our school.

This season our weatherbeaten but victorious Varsity Cross Country team was led by Coach Thompson and Captain Rod Phelps. On the field this very young group consisting of three juniors, four sophomores, and four freshmen left a great many opponents in their wake. Thundering through all of their meets, these boys, greatly encouraged by Rod Phelps and Bob Crombach, outstanding runners, finished undefeated. Sweeping seven of the twelve first places, they reclaimed their title as Wayne County Champions.

The year of 1963-64 was a most successful one for the Varsity Soccer team. Through the constant efforts of all the players, they won the Class B Section V Championship trophy. Again much credit must be extended to Coach Gentile, who led his team to victory and a new scoring record with the skill of Co-captains Larry Taillie and Lon Schilstra and many others. Our J.V. Soccer team gives the younger stars an opportunity to display their skills. With the coaching of Mr. Bowden, this year's team experienced a fairly triumphant season, finishing with five wins, two losses, and one tie.

The sport which interests probably the largest number in our school and community is basketball. The Varsity team is guided by Co-Captains Jim Henderson and Don Bailey, supported by Managers Bob Updaw and Barry Spink, and coached by Mr. Joseph. Last year our boys were defeated in the semifinals after obtaining a seventeen-three record. With eight lettermen returning, the Eagles have had another victorious year. Basketball season brightens the dreary days and stormy Friday nights of winter also for the freshmen and sophomore boys. Striving hard in hopes that they might succeed in obtaining top position in Wayne County J.V. Basketball division, these boys practice with blustry enthusiasm. Under the leadership of Coach Sones, the former J.V. teams of 1961-62 and 1962-63 held the positions of champions and runner-up. Through the experience these boys receive as J.V.'s, they should develop into excellent Varsity players.

Both the Varsity and the Junior Varsity Wrestling teams are rather young and inexperienced but highly spirited like the March winds. With the assistance of a few outstanding wrestlers such as Paul Dutcher, Ralph Moak, Kevin Cass, and Chuck Henry and under the adept leadership of Coach Thompson, these boys have worked hard for the victories they have received.

Newly-formed, the Bowling Club with Advisor Mr. Fryer provides a form of recreation that can be enjoyed throughout life. Once a week, twenty students meet for an intramural league, from which five boys are selected to represent Wayne Central in interscholastic competition.

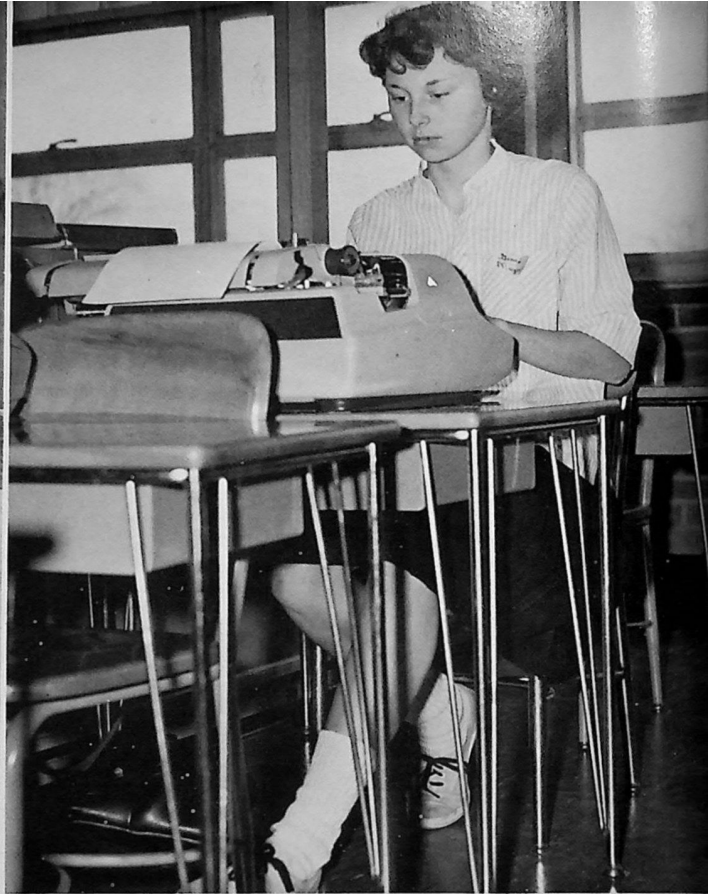

Also led by Mr. Fryer is the Golf team. Learning sportsmanship and improving their ability, these boys placed second in county sectionals in 1963. Retaining several team members, they should do even better this year.

We also hail the Track team which, under the supervision and training of Coach Sones and Captain Bob Kelly, took second place in the 1963 Wayne County Championship with runners Bill Bridges, Bob Kelly, and Rod Phelps winning individual championships. The boys are hopeful for a winning season this year.

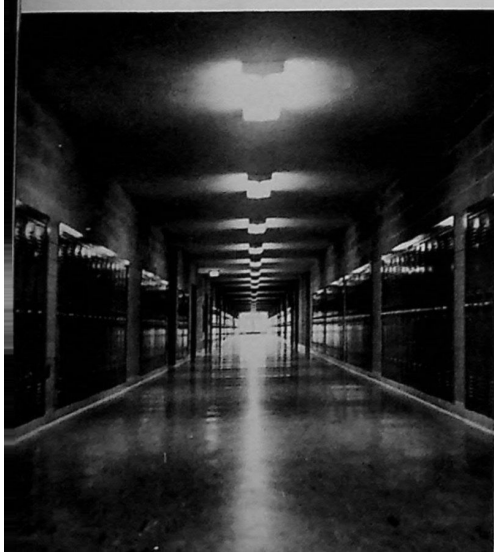

Again victorious has been our Varsity Baseball team, coached by Mr. Gentile. Team members are primarily seniors, but all are encouraged by the student body and by Co-Captains Larry Taillie, Lon Schilstra, and Jeff Risley. With the determination and ability our team possesses, they have worked hard to obtain the high position of County Class A Champs and now must defend their title. Also, our J.V. Baseball team has stiffened the competition for other schools and once again has made us exceptionally proud of them.

Sports are by no means the most important part of an education, but they do provide an outlet for the excess energy of young people. Our school has done well both scholastically and athletically. Therefore to honor outstanding athletes an Athletic Banquet is held each year in June. All hail to thee, Athletes!

MUSIC

The shifting phases of weather are often portrayed through interpretation of the tone and the rhythm of a score, and it is not until one hears music at its finest that he can truly appreciate weather. Our musical groups give students opportunities not only to develop talent and provide entertainment for the community but also to foster the study of and a keen interest in all types of music.

The Glee Club, under the management of Miss Gullo, President Gerald Barker, and Secretary Jean Miller, endeavors to further the understanding and fellowship of group singing. Every year this assemblance of one hundred sixty high school students presents school assemblies, a Christmas program, and a spring concert, featuring such well-known soloists as Richie Tobin, Cindy Van Hoover, and a new discovery, Silas Oliver. Also under Miss Gullo's careful direction are the seventh and eighth grade choruses, whose harmony rivals that of their elders; the Duo, two senior girls; the Girls' Trio, composed of sophomores; the Four Plus One, freshmen boys; a new group, the Belvadons, consisting of three seniors and two juniors; the Girls' Choir, whose delicate voices spread a cloud of silence over the audience; and Richard Anderson, accompanist.

The Wayne Central Senior Band is conducted by Mrs. Updaw. Its officers are Carol Keeley, President; Barry Spink, Secretary; Tim Scott, Treasurer; Richie Tobin, News Reporter; John Baker and Mary Jane Cass, Uniform Custodians; and Lon Schilstra, Librarian. Mrs. Updaw is also kept active by directing the Pep Band, which spurs enthusiasm at athletic events; the Dance Band, called the Sophisticatz; Junior Band; and the Wind Ensemble, a group of more advanced instrumentalists; and by coaching the Majorettes, who entertain at basketball games. Annually these groups of musicians exhibit a high quality of music in assemblies and concerts. They've also participated in competitive programs, many having been selected for All-County Band. Having done well in the past, these groups show promise of achieving higher goals in the future.

"Great music is a physical storm agitating to fathomless depths the mystery of the past within us."

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Just as moisture has great effects upon the weather, so does the National Honor Society influence the development of character, leadership, scholarship, and service in the students at Wayne. In seeking to grant special privileges to those worthy, the Society is attempting to gain the prerogative of leaving study hall without a pass for seniors who have shown themselves to be trustworthy throughout their school years. Under the supervision of Mrs. Miller, President Larry Taillie, along with Vice President Jane Stigel, Secretary Cynthia Morris, and News Reporter Suzanne Miller, has guided this prominent organization in establishing high ideals and promoting good will among the pupils and the faculty of Wayne Central.

STUDENT COURT

Stormy weather lies ahead for those students brought before Student Court. The Court's jury is composed of one representative from each class in grades seven through twelve. After two or three organizational meetings, the Court convenes only when cases warrant; however, it is always available when an injustice is committed by or on any member of the student body. Chairman of the Court, Alice Knowlton, presides over the courtroom; Secretary Connie Chase keeps accurate records of all court proceedings; John Buck and Bill Bridges, District Attorney and Assistant D. A. respectively, prosecute the accused; and Mr. Powell and Mr. Shaffer, advisors, insure that all runs smoothly and are on hand to answer any legal questions which may arise. The Student Court is open to adjudicate whenever justice is sought, and upholds high standards of student conduct.

SENIOR HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL

As rain gives nourishment to a field of corn, so does the Senior High Student Council add stability to our student body. Ably led by President Kipp Schoenwald, Vice President Robert Kelly, Secretary Kathleen Keeley, and Treasurer Donna Maimone, and assisted by their advisor, Mr. Parker N. Bridges, our student government has succeeded in uniting the student body and promoting understanding and good will among the pupils of Wayne Central. Due to the success of the first Student Council dance, roller skating parties for the American Field Service Fund, as well as open student association meetings, are being planned. Living up to the standards of good conduct set by its predecessors, the Senior High Student Council will, with the cooperation of the student body, continue to do an outstanding job in all its endeavors.

The Junior High Student Council, taking pointers from its elder in the high school, has already shown its constancy in the various activities it sponsors, such as its two annual dances and the Christmas Toy Drive. President Paul Reynolds, aided by Vice President James Cantin, Secretary Judy Jacobs, and Treasurer Donald Smith, has proved to the faculty and students that when the Junior High Student Council is given a job to do, they do it as best as they can.

Wind, rain, snow, hail — all of these elements are governing forces in the work of the skilled agriculturalist. The Future Farmers of America, headed by Ronald Smith, President; Don Render, Vice President; George Fenn, Secretary; Carl Fisher, Treasurer; Don Ruffell, Sentinel; and Robert Freer, Reporter; and advised by Mr. Faulks, fully recognize and respect the variations of weather. Accordingly they have planted crops which have won prizes at the county fair and also at the Rochester Fruit Show. Although originally created to promote interest in all fields of agriculture, the Wayne Central Chapter of this nation-wide association also plans and participates in other activities: winter brings a donkey basketball game; spring a plowing contest; and every year a banquet.

Nancy Thompson

As winter descends upon our state and school the Projection Club goes into action by providing entertainment for our student body during the lunch periods. Advisor Mr. Slater instructs the members in the operation of the projectors so that they can ably execute the club's purpose of showing films, both interesting and educational, for teachers and pupils. As a flurry of snow subsides revealed behind the scene are President Ward Milford, Veep Orlo Delass, Secretary Sharon Musso, and Treasurer Chris Lennon. Having an important function, the Projection Club is an essential part of our educational program.

F.H.A.

In earlier times a good homemaker was as essential as rain after a drought. Even though we now enjoy many modern conveniences, she is still irreplaceable. Future Homemakers of America enables students to learn wise management in the home. With the experienced guidance of Mrs. Winans, these girls discover useful ways to conserve time and energy not only in the kitchen but throughout the household. Vice President Jane Bushey assists President Darlene Schultz in conducting the meetings and in directing divers group undertakings; Patty Bauer, Secretary, accurately records the minutes of each meeting; and Kathy Kunzer, Treasurer, safeguards the dues which help to maintain this worthwhile organization.

Ann Burger

For many people a rainy day brings idleness; this is not so with the members of the Eighth Grade Sewing Club. These girls have learned the very useful art of sewing, as is proven by various new additions to their seasonable wardrobes. Due to the great response, this organization, directed by Mrs. DeWitt, has divided into two sections: Group I lies under the leadership of Beverly Ver Straite, assisted by Sheryl Michielsen; Group II is headed by Jane Hightower, aided by her Secretary-Treasurer, Kathy Collins. The members of this club make new acquaintances and learn co-operation while conducting their sewing projects, business meetings, and social gatherings.

Neither torrents of rain nor gales of wind have ever discontinued the publication of "The Wayne Whisper," our school's monthly newspaper. This year the Newspaper Club, whose goal is to produce an interesting and informative review of events in our school, is under the guidance of Advisor Mr. Askloff and Editor Bonnie Hayes. Each student of Wayne Central contributes his part in making news which is collected, organized and typed by the various reporters and typists of this organization.

LIBRARY CLUB

In today's world one of the most valuable assets a person can maintain is knowledge. One of the best places for one to acquire this knowledge is through the resources that our library provides. The members of the Library Club keep themselves busy by assisting in the functions of the library. They have access to library materials in order to help those of us who cannot find and use them successfully.

The officers of any club are exceptionally important. President Bonnie Hayes, advised by Mrs. Martin, leads her club with enthusiasm and a sunny smile. Always ready to step in and rejuvenate the group is the alert Vice President, Christine Lennon. Secretary Marlene Copertino must brave the blizzards of paper work and keep the club records in order, and Treasurer Donna Revelle has the task of harvesting the crops in the fall to meet the club's financial needs.

FORENSIC SOCIETY

Long ago and even today weather was and still is unpredictable. Many times the weatherman's forecast has been erroneous. Some people have even felt they possessed the power to portend — a highly disputable subject. In addition, there exist many perplexing problems influencing nature. The Forensic Society discusses not merely these questions but multifarious topics, including the social and economic problems of our country. Under the guidance of its advisor, Mr. Miller, and its democratically elected officers — President Barry Huff, Veep and Sergeant at Arms Ken Bradstreet, Secretary Daughn O'Neill, and Treasurer Kipp Schoenwald — this newly-organized club has drawn up a constitution with high standards and has participated in intra-school debate.

Ann Burger

Just as today's scientists desire to learn still more about weather factors, so do the members of the Wayne Central French Club endeavor to become better acquainted with the customs and traditions of France. Assembled to encourage its members to speak the French language informally, this club is limited to second and third year students. Although it is under the qualified leadership of President Nancy Morgan, assisted by Secretary Richard Anderson and Treasurer Deborah Corcoran, Mrs. Miles, the advisor of Le Cercle française, aids the group when major problems arise. French Club conducts various programs consisting of plays, singing, guest speakers, and films or slides throughout the year, all climaxed by dinner at the Normandy Inn.

S.H.O.

Just as weather is a governing force of life, so is modern science essential to the existence of humanity. The Science Club, whose purpose is to provide an opportunity for students to use school equipment for scientific projects and to introduce them to science professions, has visited local manufacturing plants and the Metal Arts Company.

This year the club is led by Advisor Mr. Cataldo, President Douglas Magin, and Secretary-Treasurer Linda Gaylord. The Science Club, to whom some professional people in various scientific fields have spoken in the past, has also planned a trip to the Republic Steel Mill and to Niagara Falls.

Nancy Thompson

In early times weather was one of the most important factors in the life of a country doctor. Although urgently needed, at times he could not reach the patient immediately due to rain or snow. Housewives had to know how to care for the sick until the doctor arrived; this they learned from advice and experience. Now students are taught the useful art of home safety and medical care.

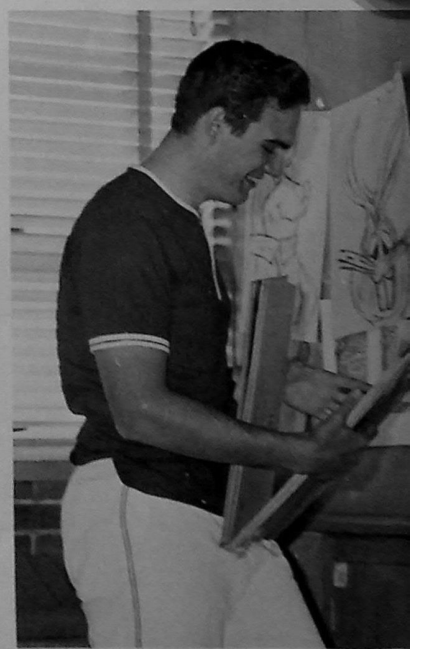

With helpful suggestions from its advisor, Mrs. Brewer, and the capable leadership of its officers - President Sherry Ikewood, Vice President Linda Lehr, Secretary Barbara Harden, and Treasurer Judy Foote - the Student Health Organization is organized and operated efficiently. To better understand what the duties and responsibilities of the nurse are, these girls visit hospitals, work in X-ray clinics, and assist in immunization clinics.

SENIOR PLAY

At 8 p.m. on November 8, 1963, the lights dimmed and the audience grew silent as the curtain rose on "Rebel Without a Cause," a three-act play dramatized by James Fuller and directed by Robert Palmatier. Portraying the actions and emotions of juvenile delinquents, this drama was of great interest to all. The cast and stage crew had rehearsed untiringly for six weeks but were greatly rewarded by its success.

Every cloud has a silver lining; however, to reach it one must conquer the leaden gray on the outside. You, Senior, will soon be searching for happiness and success in a new, complex world. Many obstacles will lie in your path, but you will surmount them and go forward to a greater future.

“Forward shall be our watchword,
As weeks and months revolve,
Forward in earnest purpose,
And in each high resolve.”

Sly Wabbit!

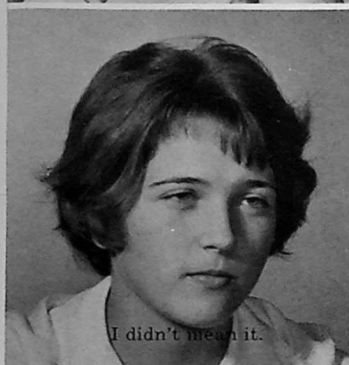

You're a sly one!

Je suis très fatiguée.

CHARGE!

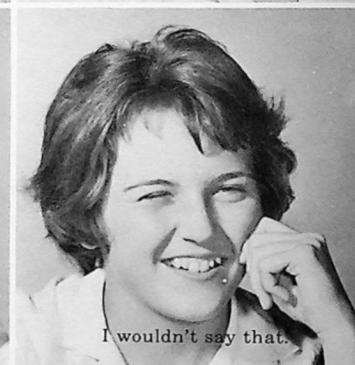

I didn't mean it.

Boy, is this ever interesting.

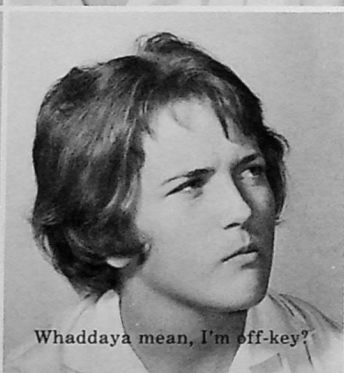

Ooh! That tickles!

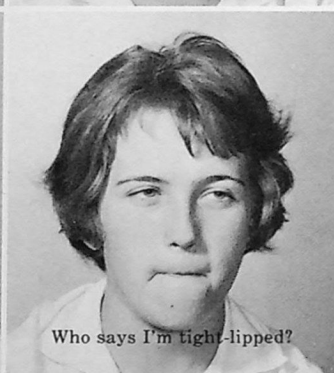

I wouldn't say that.

Hello-o-o there.

Whaddaya mean, I'm off-key?

Who says I'm tight-lipped?

Aw-w-w.

Our team's best.

SENIORS (continued)

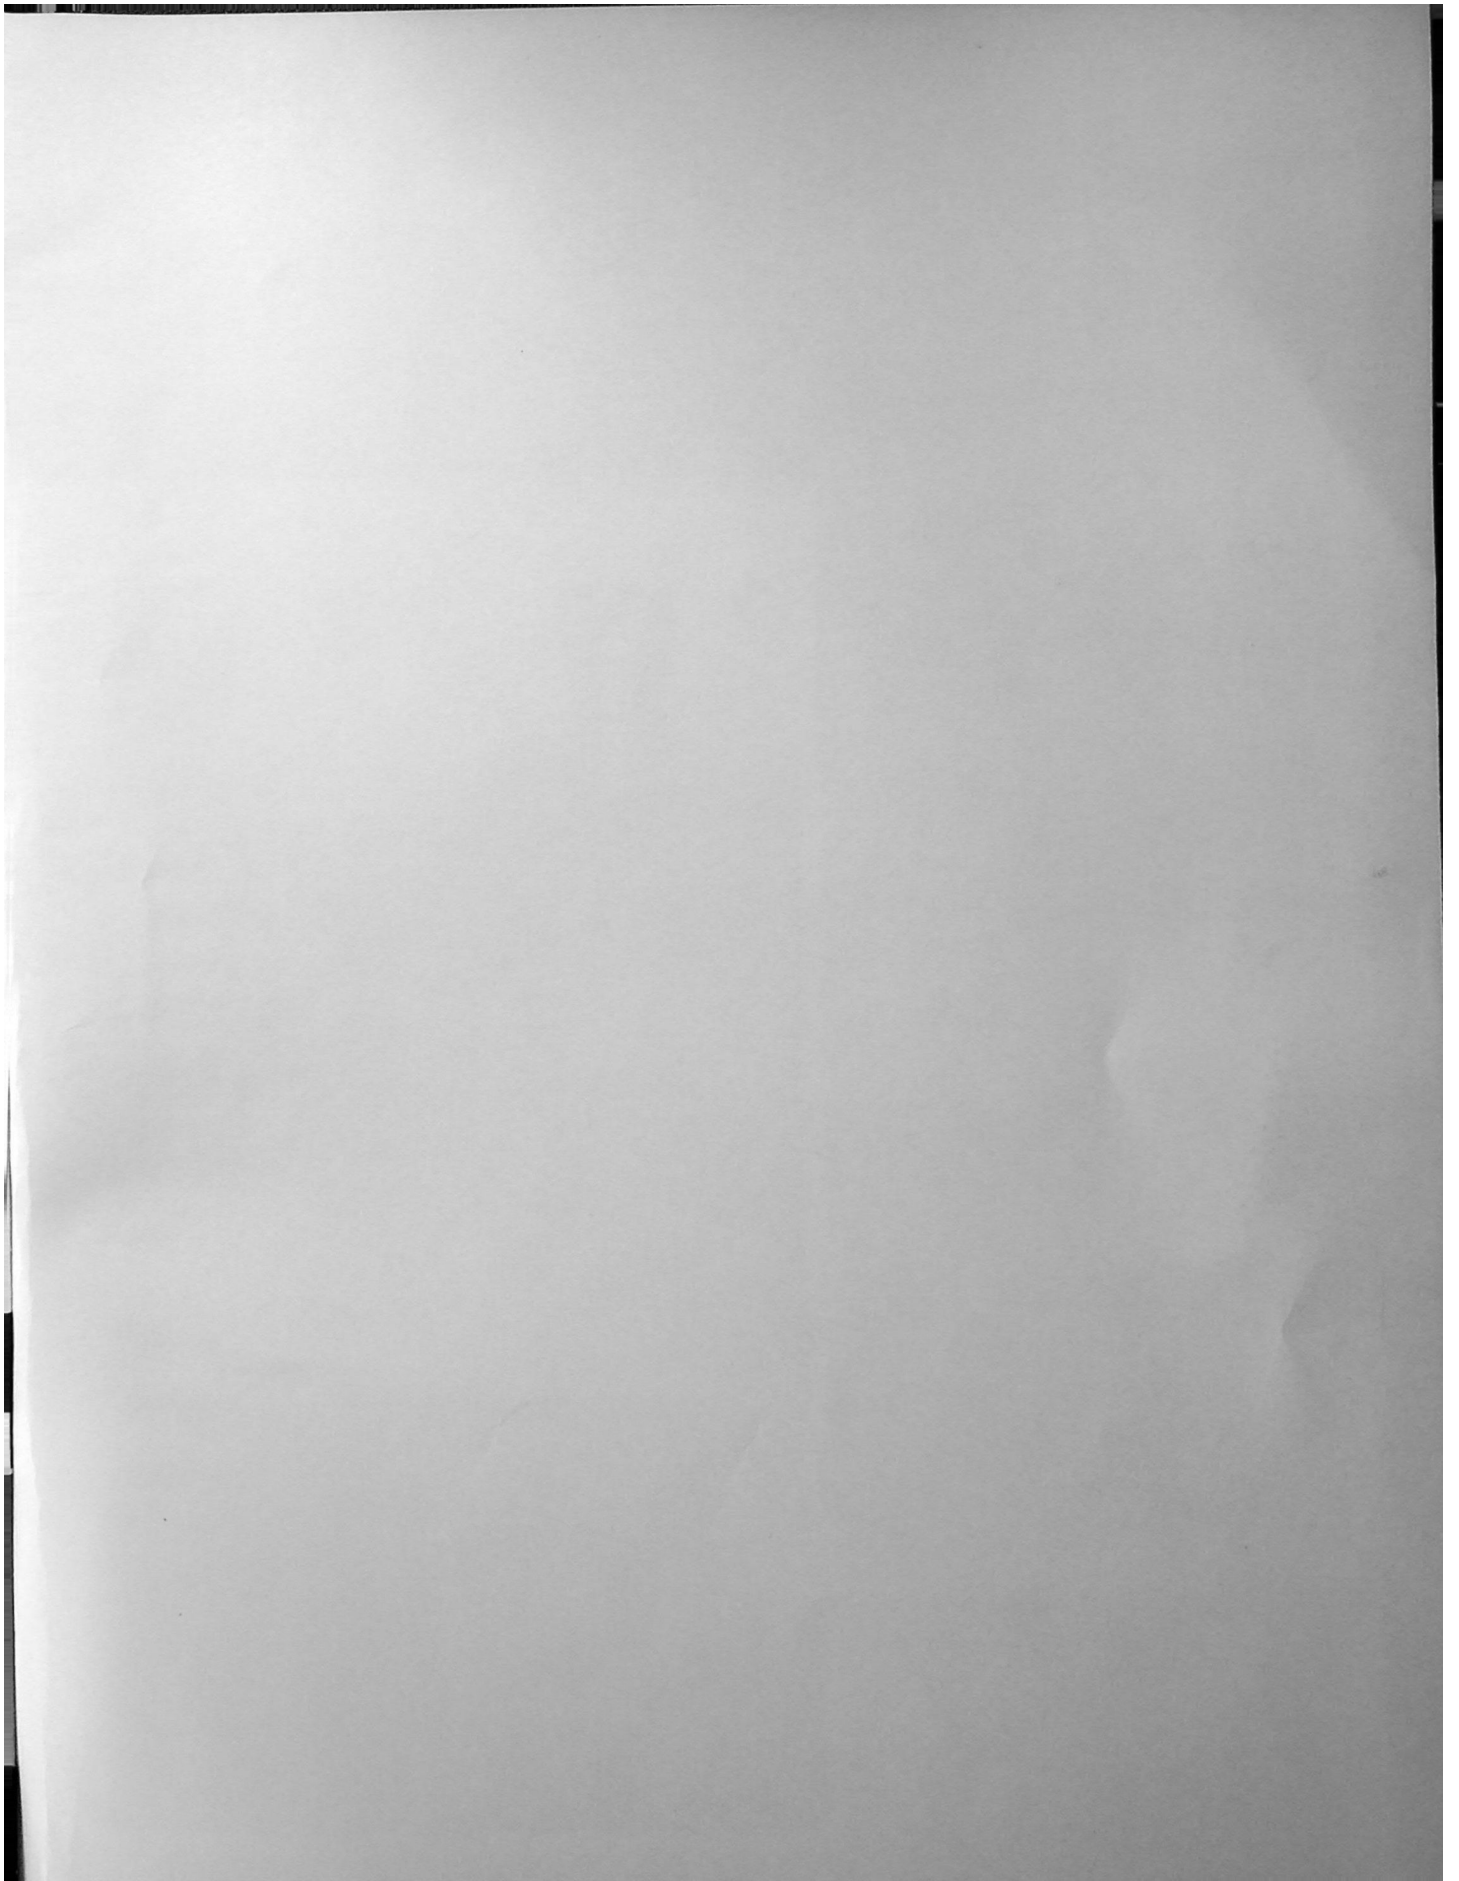

To our patronizers, without whose assistance the publication of the 1964 EAGLE would not have been possible. We sincerely appreciate their cooperation and aid. To all of our supporters we extend our deepest and fondest wishes.
