BRIAN SCHENK

Dedication

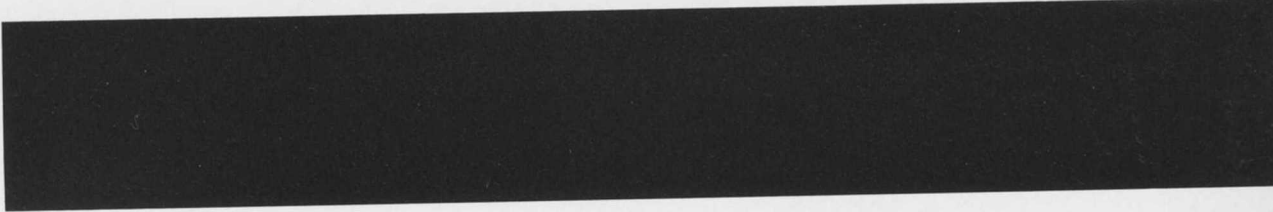

Mrs. Marian Wulfert

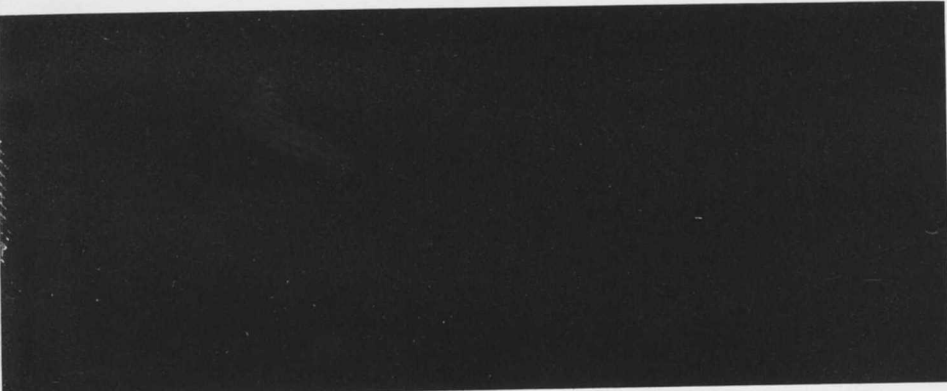

Marian Rae Wulfert, a former yearbook editor, is the teacher to whom we proudly dedicate the 1971-72 yearbook. The interest she shows to young adults, both in the classroom and out, is greatly appreciated by the middle school students.

Mrs. Wulfert resides at 2561 Lake Road, Ontario with her husband Bill. They recently moved into the new home which they themselves built.

Mrs. Wulfert graduated from Wayne Central High School in 1963 and then went to Oswego State University College where she graduated in 1967. She then came back to Wayne Central to start her teaching career. This is her fifth year of teaching here in the English department.

Besides teaching Mrs. Wulfert enjoys reading, writing, oil painting and music.

Thank you Mrs. Wulfert for the concern and interest you have for the students here at the TCA Middle School.

MIND

I look out a window
From my seat in class.
I see fields for something to do.
I stare a long time.
Then I look at the sky.
But through the window
I can't see the sky.
It's blocked out by something,
By vertical lines.
I can hardly see the sky!
It makes me shiver to think
Of what it would be like
To be locked in.
Not being able to see anything.
Not being able to learn.
Not being able to live.

Must be my Hai Kar-ati!

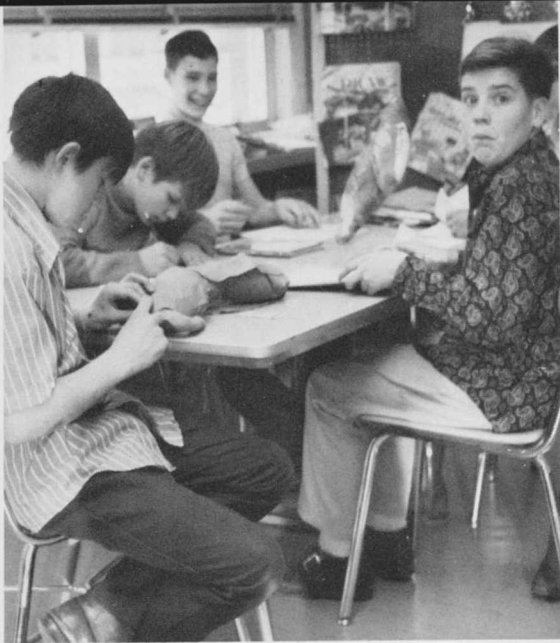

I wonder if he's married?

Tummy Trouble?

The Bubble Club.

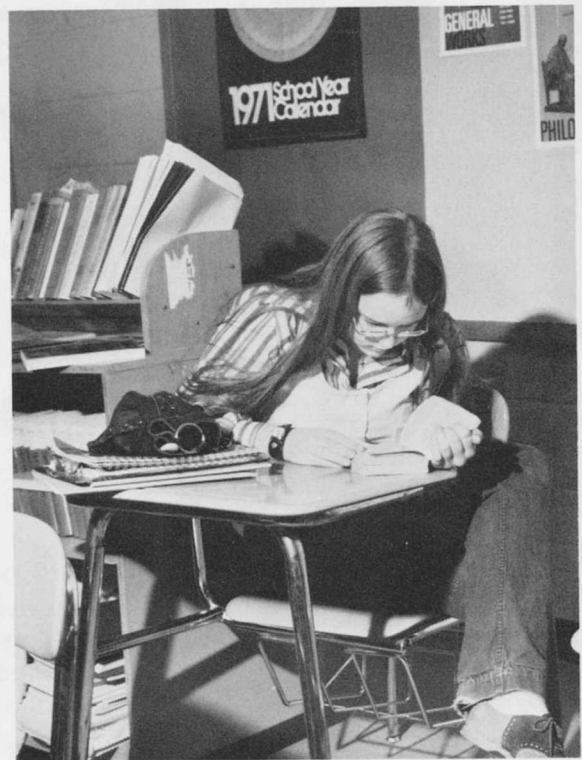

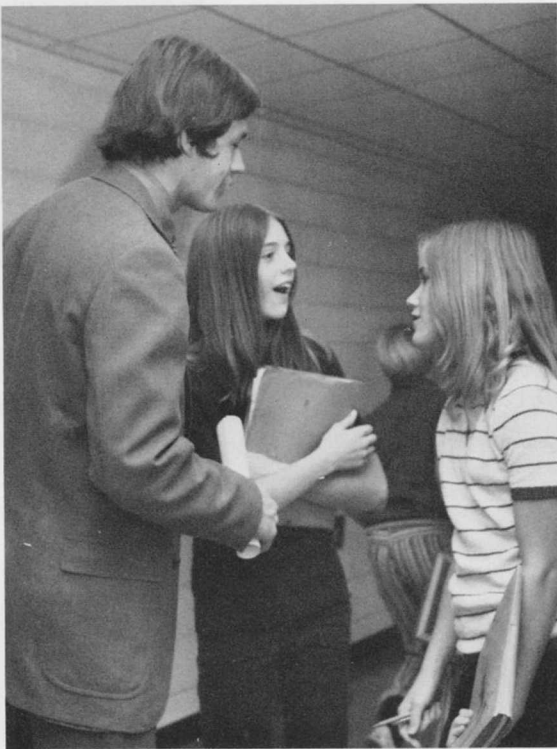

He took my toy boat!

Ya know, Opposites attract!

Land sakes, Ellen, I never thought you would. . . .

The Silent Minority.

A high-contrast, black and white graphic design. The central element is a large, stylized eye shape, composed of a white circle surrounded by a thick black outline. This eye is set against a black background. Radiating from the top and bottom of the eye are numerous white, triangular rays of varying lengths, creating a sunburst effect. The overall composition is symmetrical and minimalist.

Interview With Mr. Sones

In his European travels, which include Labrador, U.S.S.R., Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria, Denmark, and England, Mr. Sones, in comparing their school systems to ours, says the schools in Europe are (1) based on special schools stressing certain areas, whereas our schools teach everything, and, (2) geared to prepare people for a society other than ours, which is reflected in the curriculum.

When asked about the new trends in education, he replied that they are worth-while if they result in programs that will help children to be better prepared to meet the challenges of our society. Mr. Sones says that given the chance, he would make very few basic changes in our school system; he would try to remain as flexible as possible in meeting the students needs.

Some of Mr. Sones' hobbies are sports, travel, and photography. If he had a chance to live life again, he would still choose to become a principal, because it gives him an opportunity to work with teachers, parents, and students. When asked how he felt about principals when he was our age, he replied, "I think I had a good, healthy respect for them." Now he realizes this.

Charles J. Sones

Each morning when I see the smiling happy faces of the students getting off the school buses I am glad to be part of the Thomas C. Armstrong Middle School. It is you students that make a school. Your smiles! Your frowns! Your moods! Your desires! Your ambitions!

It gives me great pleasure to reflect on how you began as a sixth grader when it was all new and different; adjusted and settled down as a seventh grader; and then began looking for more freedoms as you matured through the eighth grade and were preparing for the high school.

To the class of TCA '72 I say "Best wishes, it has been my pleasure being with you."

The Saddening Cry

One week of summer was left. Everything was silent that night, and as I walked along the beach, I heard the cry of a gull. When I was returning to my campsite, once more I heard that saddening cry. As I was crawling into my sleeping bag, I thought of that cry. It seemed like a symbol to me, because summer was now over and another season had gone by.

Science is my business!

I ain't got it, and I wouldn't never have it no how!

Spiked water fountains?

Running?! That means detention!!!

When I'm not teaching music class, I find other games to play!

Who me? Couldn't be!

Oh! I swallowed my bubble gum!!

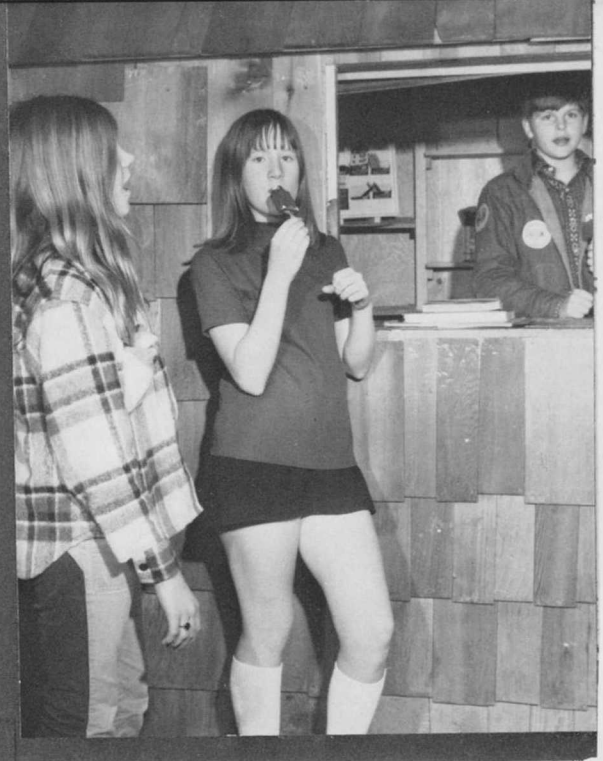

How do you like the new me?

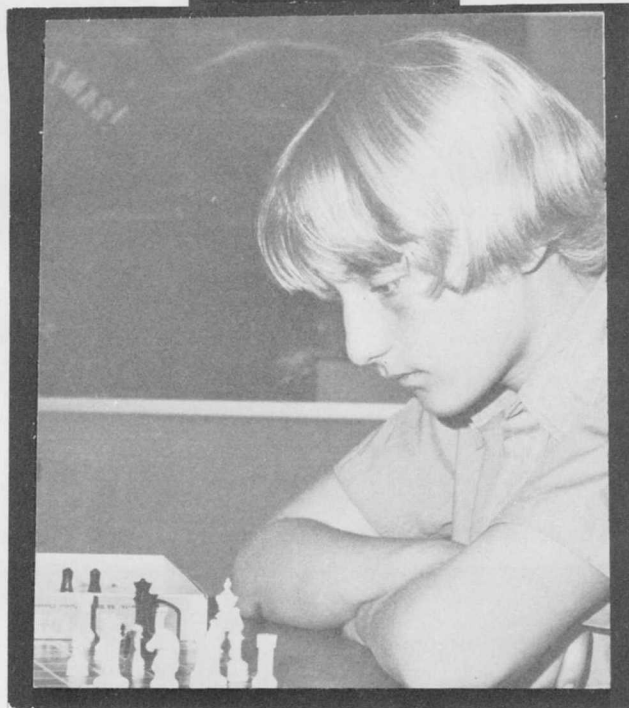

Then you connect the watchamajigger to the thingamabob. . .

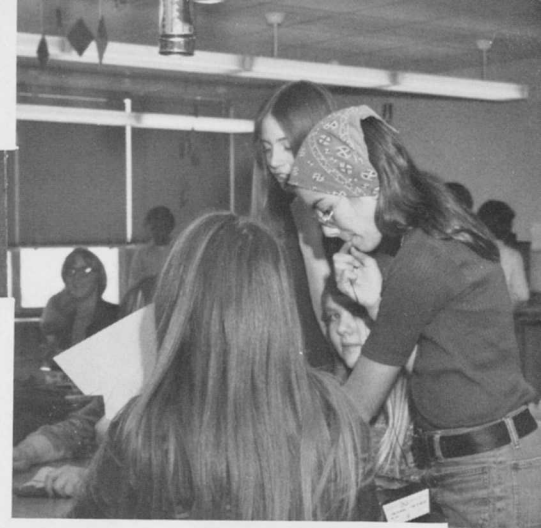

Spiffy!

A penny for your thoughts, John. (ZILCH)

Do you think he's sick?

No, No, it's this way. . .no, I guess it's not.

Let's see now, three bats' wings, two frogs' warts. . .

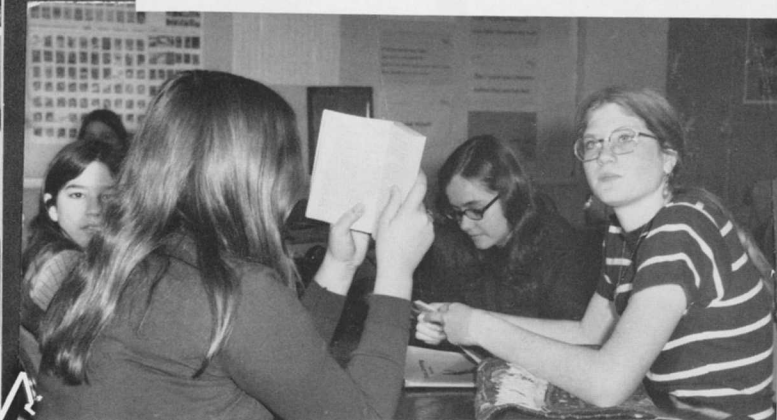

I think she's a little hungry.

The End

I wonder what Paul's doing tonight.

Hey, Charley, want to steal some?
